Biography

"I am drawn by the ordinary ... the tools, clothing and furniture that are part of the fabric of the past ... and by the extraordinary natural world of the farms and woodlands of my home in the Lower Susquehanna River Valley of Pennsylvania. My paintings are studies of simplicity that dignify the commonplace."

Millicent Neill Decker is a self-taught artist who paints in the old master tradition of Egg Tempera. The mixture of egg yolk, water and powdered earth pigment brushed in thin layers of undercoats and glazing produces paintings of exceptional depth and luminosity, well-suited to her style of realism and detail.
